

WASHINGTON CRITIC COMPANY. BALLET KILBOURN, PRESIDENT.

OFFICE: 043 D STREET N. W WASHINGTON, D. C.

WASHINGTON, JUNE 22, 1880.

The Cabinet meets on Tuesdays and Pri days at 12:30 p. m. Senators and Representatives in Concress will be received by the President every day, except Mondays, from 11 until 12.

Persons not members of Congress having business with the President will be received from 12 to 12:30 on Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

These who have no business, but call merely to pay their respects, will be received by the President in the East Room at 1 p. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and

VISITORS TO THE DEPARTMENTS.

Secretaries Blaine, Proctor and Tracy have issued the following order for the reception of visitors: Reception of Senators and Representatives in Congress from 10 to 19 o'clock.

Reception of all persons not connected with the Departments, at 12 o'clock, except Tuesdays and Fridays, which are Cabinet days; and Thursdays in the Department of State, when the members of the Diplomatic Corps are exclusively received.

Persons will not be admitted to the building after 2 o'clock each day, unless by card, which will be sent by the captain of the watch to the chief clerk or to the head of the bureau for which the visit is intended. This rule will not apply to Senators, Representatives or heads of Executive Depart-

The Postmaster-Genera receives person having business with him from 10 a, m until 1 p. m., except on Tuesdays and Fridays, Cabinet days.

Personal calls upon the Secretary of the Interior must be made between 10 a. m and 12 o'clock noon.

JUSTICE BRADLEY'S COURSE.

Justice Bradley of the Criminal Court is not, it seems, in favor with the criminal classes. He has conceived the extraordinary idea that laws were made to be executed and that the punishments indicated are to be inflicted where guilt | At midnight, in the dragon's den. is proved. The record before him is occurred since he took his seat and there have been forty-seven convictions. For all those cases where conviction has been for attempted homicide or housebreaking the sentence averages an imprisonment of four years and three months. This is "business."

It will be seen that Justice Bradley is what is called a severe Judge and none will deny that he is a just one. Nainrally, there is a protest from those who commit crimes, and, it may be, from some of those whose business it is to defend criminals. There is no protest from the great majority of the community, the law-abiding. On the contrary, there is general congratulation that in Washington the laws are meaning something and that those who transgress them incur a risk. There is gratification on the part of the guardions of the law that their efforts are not made in valu. Life and property are safer. Justice Bradley need not doubt that his course is indorsed by all whose indorsement is desirable.

Washington is in some respects a peculiar city. It has, for its size, a large floating population and it has a large population of the class which is, if not largely criminal, at least largely thriftless and irresponsible. It is a class which can be kept from wrong-doing by one sentiment alone and that the sentiment of wholesome fear. And fear is obtaining among this class. The law-breakers no longer expect, at the worst, light punishment. They know that the effort to convict them will be supported and that conviction will be followed by something serious. There will be no child's play in court. This knowledge is already producing its good results. Justice Bradley is doing

TO REDUCE CORPULENCY. How to reduce corpulency is one of the problems of the day. It thrusts itself for solution upon all alike, upon the man of business and the idler, the housewife and the belle, upon the middle-aged and even upon the young. Scientists have considered it, and it affords a source of revenue to physicians. It is a great problem. It has given some men fame. Bismarck's doctor became known all over the world because of it, though, of late, Bismarck adoned his prescriptions and his method. It is a problem still unsolved, or, rather, one which was unsolved until a few days ago.

It was reserved for an Indiana girlthis is Indiana's year-to demonstrate that corpulency could be reduced. Her device is a success. There is no fault to be found with her system, so far as the attainment of results goes. It will diminish corpulency to a certainty.

WASHINGTON CRITIC her. She wanted a pretty figure. She of her form was something like that seen in the fashion plates of the magagipes published for the sake of giving women fancies and making men work harder for their support. So she committed suicide. That was her remedy for corpulency.

It will be admitted that the Indiana girl's corpulency cure is a certain one. Whether or not it is to be recommended for general adoption is another matter. what might be called a severe remedy and there are those who would rather have the disease. There are numerous corpulent people in the world who get along pretty well as they are, who are, like Bismarck, figures in more than one sense, and who seem to enjoy themselves. The sky is just as blue, the grass just as green and the birds sing just as loudly for them as for the lean. So the Indiana girl's recipe is given, not necessarily for utilization. but merely for what it is worth.

NAST AGAIN.

Thomas Nast, he whose pencil-stroke none other has equaled in telling caricature since Hogarth died, and who has excelled even Hogarth in strength, was supposed, a year or two ago, to have passed away from the world of artists who, with the writers of the country, are shaping public opinion. Once in a while something of his would be seen, but even when it appeared it did not seem his. The man appeared listlesshis wonderful pencil seemed to have lost its cunning.

But Nast has reappeared again, the Nast of old. What inducement has sufficed to draw him from his retirement is unknown. Yet the fact stands. He has plunged fairly and carnestly into work for that strong Chicago publication "America," and the genius which made "Harper's Weekly" famous is shown again in all its vigor. The Cronin tragedy and the Johnstown calamity are Nast's themes in 'America" of June 20. The first is a telling thing and the second something remarkable. The flood afforded a subject fitted for the artist's singular powers. From the appealing figure in the foreground to the wreckage forming a ghastly death's head beneath the famous bridge, all is Nast at his best. It is a gratifying thing. He was

JAMES NEWTON MATTHEWS

James Newton Matthews of the Indianapolis Journal has written a little poem, called forth by the Cronin murder, waich is here given:

He was my triend! To night I sit And think of him whose and fate stirs The pity of two hemispheres With horror, as they speak of it.

He was my friend! In other years I halled him as a soul refine A college brother, brave and kind, Impulsive, tender, quick to tears.

Poor man! He stood upon the side Of justice, with the feeble few, Who, having tried him, found him true And fearless-and for this he died

All lamblike to the slaughter pen They lured him with the lying cry Of mercy-led him forth to die,

Another victim of the bold, Unblushing viliainy that waits, Red-handed, at old Erin's gates. And barters Irish blood for gold.

The whole world's hot, indignant eyes Are fixed on this, the foulest crime A deed whose horror multiplies

O fair-famed city of the lake, Awake, and let not any stain Of this last butchery remain Ou thy white garments, for God's sake.

O Justice, with thy lightning smite The few or many—high or low— Who dealt, or who inspired the blow That stunned the Christian world that James Newton Matthews, modest and m assuming, with none of that self-assertive ness which seems necessary to make even a poet known now-a-days, should rank very nigh among the small group of Western writers who are doing as good work when they get outside the newspaper field as they are doing inside it. His verse is delicate and finished, and, unlike more of the delicate and finished verse which ordinarily finds its way into the magazines, has strength and brilliancy. Here is something of his which better illustrates his exquisite fancy and command of language than do the lines above.

DAY AND NIGHT.

When drowsy Day draws round his downy The Tyrian tapestries of gold and red,

And, weary of his flight, Blows out the palace light— 'Tis night!

When languid Night, awakening with a Leaps down the moon-washed stairway of the dawn In trailing disarray,

Sweeping the dews away—

Quick Train Service to the Seavis Pennsylvania Railroad. via Pennsylvania Railroad.

The present arrangement of trains on the Pennsylvania system of roads makes a trip to any of the resorts on the New Jersey coast so pleasant and convenient that the temptation to go down by the sen is almost irresistible. One can leave the Baltimore and Potomac Station, Sixth and B streets, at 11 a. m. and arrive in Atlantic City 4:30 p. m., or leave at 11:40 a. m. and arrive at Atlantic City 5:40 p. m., Cape May 6 p. m. and at Ocean Grove or Long Branch about 5:30 p. m. The hotels and boarding-houses at the different New Jersey sea-shore resorts are filling up, and a great many cottagers have already taken possession of their summer homes by the sea. A trip to the ahore is really pleasanter at this season than later on, when the high tide of the season has attracted larger crowds.

Parlor Car Liue Between Washington, Baltimore and Saratoga via Pennsylvania Railroad.

Commencing June 24, 1889, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will place in service a line of Fullman Falaca Cars between Washington, Baltimore and Saratoga. The north-bound car will leave Washington, Baltimore and Potomae Railroad Station, at 0 a.m. every week day; Baltimore 10:38 a.m. and run inrough to Saratoga via Pennsylvania, West Shore and Delaware and Hudson Canal Company railroads, arriving at Saratoga about 9:25 p. m. The south-bound car will leave Saratoga every week day about 8:10 a.m., and arrive in Baltimore 8:06 and Washington 6:12 p. m. This arrangement will greatly enhance the comfort of travel to this famous watering place, as the entire trip is made without the necessity of leaving the car. The trains carrying these through cars will also connect closely to and from Phorpicia, Kaaterskill, Grand Hotel and other points of interest in the Catekills.

President and Mrs. Harrison have formally accepted the invitation of Henry C. Bowen to be present at Rose-land Park, Woodstock, July 4. The President and party will arrive in Put-nam July 3, and a committee of promi-nent gentlemen have been named to attend to their reception.

The Duchess of Cleveland, who has just published the "Battle Abbey Roll," a work which is likely to prove of great historical value, does all in her power to add to the beauty of her interesting property. She has herself painted the little dell where King Harold fell with ferns and flowers and made it as charming a place as any wherein historic interest and natural beauty are allied.

A London letter says: "The wife of the Marquis of Lorne is an undoubted artist. I have seem busts and other works in sculpture which showed that if she had chosen plastic art as a profession she would have succeeded at it. Her sketches of Canadian scenery are downright clever. The portrait at the Grosvenor is more than that; it is masterly. The armor in which, for picturesque reasons, the warrior is incased, is finely painted, and there is teal power of modeling in color in the flesh.

Mrs. Sam Foom, a Chinese lady who has lately gone back to China with her husband, has a singular story. She was a little slave girl, and was rescued years ago by Dr. Gibson. She gave a lecture some time since, in one of the Methodist churcher of San Francisco, on the history of her life. Her husband, a Christian Chinaman, started in business ten years ago, and made a vow that when he was worth $3,006 he would go back to China to presch the gospel to his countrymen! The couple have gone back, accordingly, as self-supporting missionaries.

THE CHARM OF LIFE. Tell me not that advertising
Is at best an empty dream,
For its charms are more surprising

Than its base traducers deem.

And whichever way thou turnest
Thou wilt find upon the whole,
Those who advertise in carnest wealthy commercial firms, and we shall admit that those who do the thing properly)

Soonest reach the wish'd for goal.

Would'st thou, then, a lesson borrow? Would'st thou know the royal way? Would'st thou know the royal way?
Advertise, then, so to-morrow
(Don't let a little expense deter you;
you are merely casting your bread
upon the waters, and you will soon have the satisfaction of knowing that each to-morrow)
Finds you richer than to-day.

Advertise, then ! No retreating ! Advertise, then? No retreating:
Let the senseless croakers rave;
While your heart with hope is beating
(You will always find a lot of people in every community who are blind to their interests; but while you are making for yourself fame and for-

They will find oblivion's grave. Printer's fak will lead the battle—
Printer's fak—the balm of life—
Printer's ink—no din, no rattle—
(No, it does its work quietly; and in the great war of competion, when judiciously and thickly laid on, it always)
Leads the van against the strife.

Advertisers oft remind us,

Advertisers of reinful us,
We can make success sublime—
Make our "pile" and leave behind us (Exactly—that's just were it comes in. We not only feather our own nest, but we provide for the prosperity and well-being of generations
yet unborn, and so leave behind us)
What defes the touch of time.

Seeing which, perchance another
Struggling man, with weary brain—
Some non-advertising brother
(A good example is always to be commended, especially in the matter of advertising; and many a struggling business man, seeing the secret of ananother's success)
May with wisdom try again.

Advertise, then! Up and doing!
So avert a meaner fate;
And the wiser course pursuing
(You will find that you will soon be in a position to look the world in the face, if you will only)
Learn to advertise and wait!

Grand Pleasure Tour to Cresson.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company, in order to provide an attractive tour for the holiday season of the Fourth, has arranged a grand pleasure tour for the Alleghenies and Cresson on Thursday, June 27. This tour is fixed at a most opportune date, as every one desires to celebrate the holiday of independence by some pleasant jaunt. There is no pleasanter trip one can take than this, nor any more appropriate, for where could the birthday of liberty be more fitly celebrated than on mountain top? The summer merits of Cresson are too well known to need more than mention. It is one of the choicest spots in the land, and offers everything that can in any way contribute to pleasing diversion.

An additional interest attaches to Cresson on account of its proximity to Conemaugh and Johnstown. Frequent trains run between the points, and one has an excellent opportunity of seeing the ruins caused by the late floods.

Round-trip tickets, including one day's board at the celebrated Mountain House, good for return trip within ten days, will be sold from Washington at St. The special train, under the supervision of the Tourist Agent, will leave Broad Street Station, Philadelphia, at 10-40 a. m., and parties will leave B. & P. Tis hard that the arms of death
Our dear brother from us should embrace;
Tis hard to think that never again
Shall we look on our loved one's face.
As a son he was tender and loving,
As a friend, faithful and true;
Always gantle and forgiving.

Ever anxious a kind not to do.

The Lighter the Better

And we've got the lightest things that can be woven. There's absolutely no weight to them. Toss them into the air and they flutter and float down as gently as feathers.

Is that thin enough for you? Still they're woven in wearable fabrics-fabrics that will hold their shapeand fit. Plain light or dark colorings, checks and stripes in Pongees, Seersuckers-(genuine and imitation)-Mohairs, Alpacas, Silks, Sicilians, Flarnels, Ducks and And a powerful cust, in Auber's masterpiece. Linens-coats, and coats and vests, from half a dollar up.

Blazers in club colors for tennis players; also, striped and plain white flannel and serge suits—the regulation for cricket—English and American made.

White and Fancy Vests in launderable fabrics, silks and worsted and silk mixtures, 75c. to $7. Plain white, figured, barred and striped, on tinted grounds.

Traveling Dusters-and if you're journeying at all you want one. The saving to your clothing will pay the bill. Linens, Alpacas, etc. We can give you the parallel of this stock for men in the Boys' sizesmodified and changed in pattern and style to suit their wants and becoming their years.

Third floor for the Men. Second floor for the Boys.

The prices are as far below those current hereabouts as the variety and quality of our stock is above the majority-and there are none who pretend to carry the complete line that we do. In fact, there are very few houses in the States that make the effort,
